

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image processing apparatus including, an image processing unit that performs a first image processing on image data
5 including one or more image constituent parts, an incompatible part detection unit that executes an incompatibility detection processing, and an accounting unit that accounts for the executed incompatibility detection processing. Preferably, the incompatibility detection
10 processing detects an incompatible part incompatible with the first image processing from the image constituent parts.